

Tokens are secure strings of text that can allow a user that has forgotten their password to recover their account.

